

MOST CRUSHING REVERSE SINCE FIRST MARNE BATTLE FOR GERMANS

AMERICAN CASUALTIES ESTIMATED AT 12,000

First Light From General Pershing as to Losses in Recent Heavy Fighting--1,300,000 Now Across--March Says Situation Good.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 3.—The American casualties in the present great offensive on the western front are estimated at 12,000 in killed, wounded and missing.

General Pershing has thus reported to Chief of Staff March, and the latter so informed the members of the state military affairs committee today.

General March told the committee that the American casualties a week ago were averaging 17 in 1,000 engaged and that today they have increased to about 20 in each 1,000. This indicated the intensity of the fighting as well as the stiffening of the German resistance, due to their throwing picked shock troops in against the Americans.

The chief of staff also told the committee that we now have passed the 1,300,000 mark in sending troops overseas.

General March discussed the new army bill at some length with the committee, but did not give the members details of the changes which are expected to be made in the draft ages. This fact was disclosed only to Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the committee, who was given a copy of the bill as drafted by the general staff, by Secretary of War Baker.

The chief of staff told the committee that there still were very many men in camp and that the man power requirements of the army will hardly be as great as has been expected.

"No enormous increase will come" he is understood to have told the committee.

General March told the members of the committee that the general situation on the western front was the "most promising for some time." The Allies advance has been most successful, he said, and the German morale has been "materially shocked."

General March reiterated his statement of Wednesday that the objective of the Americans and French in the present drive is to destroy the German army. He gave some sensational data to prove that this now is being done. The general said that he had received a private message from an officer of the staff of General Muir, commanding the 28th division. This officer had just returned from Fere En Tardenois and he reported that it did not seem possible that any army could have gathered together so much war material of every sort as the Germans had already abandoned in their retreat.

The Germans went back so fast, this officer reported, that they had been unable to bury their dead and the advancing Americans and French actually were compelled to advance over the dead bodies of the enemy. The general declined to make any estimate of casualties. Previously members of the senate military affairs committee, who had conferred with him had stated that he had told them that General Pershing had estimated the entire casualties in the present offensive to date at not more than twelve thousand. General March refused to discuss casualties at his later conference with the newspapermen.

BRITISH AIRMEN ARE VERY ACTIVE

German Air Inferiority Indicated As Territory Behind Hun Lines Is Flayed By Explosives—Many Machines Downed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, August 3.—Six German aeroplane sheds and 16 machines were set on fire and one German plane was blown to bits by bombs dropped by British airmen on August 1. It is officially announced. Eleven German aeroplanes were shot down during the day's fighting and three other were driven down out of control. Another German plane was downed within the British lines by fire from high angle guns.

The text of the communication follows:
"On August 1st we dropped over twenty-four tons of bombs. A large number of these were directed on a hostile aerodrome from a very low altitude and during the course of a raid by two of our squadrons. Great damage was done to hangars and living quarters at the aerodrome. Six hangars and 16 machines were set on fire and one machine was blown to pieces on the ground. Eleven hostile machines were brought down in the course of the day's fighting, and three were driven down out of control. One hostile machine was shot down in our lines, by anti-aircraft fire and a German balloon was brought down in flames by our fire."

"Two of the enemy's bombing machines were shot down over their aerodrome by our fighting pilots. Two of our machines are missing."

"During the night, in spite of unfavorable weather, tons of bombs were dropped by us on the railway lines, stations and aerodromes behind the German front. The same aerodrome which had been attacked during the day was again heavily bombed. Our night bombing machines all returned."

RUSSIAN PLANS ARE MATURING

Complete Agreement Sure on Steps to be Taken By Allies, Japan and China to Assist Muscovites.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 3.—Russia again held the center of the stage today. While the general negotiations with Japan continue it was made very plain in official quarters that they are of a most amicable character, and that the complete agreement is certain. Only minor points are at issue. On the broad general scheme there is complete agreement.

Just when an official statement will be forthcoming is hard to say. It is promised as soon as it can be made public without causing embarrassment to the various nations concerned. The announcement is complete on the desk of President Wilson and when issued it will make it clear to the people of the world that there will be no gobbling up of any Russian territory.

The general plan for economic assistance already has been announced. It provides for assistance of every sort to the Russian peoples in order that they may again become self-supporting. The military feature, broadly speaking, will provide for the utilization of a small international force in such a manner that it will not give offense to Russia. This force is expected to number in its ranks representatives of all of the Allied powers with Japan and China, by reason of territorial proximity concerned as far as Siberia is concerned.

U-BOAT AGAIN ON THIS SIDE

Sinks Schooner Off Nova Scotia Coast—Nine of Crew Reach Shore In Safety—U-Boat Took Provisions.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 3.—An unnamed schooner was sunk by a submarine at 11:35 yesterday morning, 35 miles southwest of Briar Island, near the coast of Nova Scotia, the navy department was informed today. Nine men, who were landed at Gannet Rock Light in a dory early this morning, told of the sinking of the vessel. The first word of the operations of the submarine reached the department when nine members of the crew landed from a dory at the Gannet Rock Light at 6:30 this morning. They reported that the schooner had been held up by the submarine which appeared to be about 200 feet long and carried two guns. After taking off provisions the boarding crew from the submarine set the schooner on fire and then left. The navy did not identify the schooner, neither did it make it plain whether the nine men who were landed were all of the crew.

NEW DRAFT AGE TO BE FROM 18 TO 45 YEARS

Older Men Not Likely to be Called Into Active Service--Younger Men in Three Classes--Draft to be in Conformity to Traditional Policy.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 3.—Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the senate military affairs committee, this afternoon announced that he, Secretary of War Baker and Chairman Dent of the house military committee, had agreed that the draft ages in the new man power bill would be 18 to 45.

The bill will give the president authority to "draft persons liable to military service in such sequence of ages and at such time or times as he may prescribe."

Senator Chamberlain explained that in applying the draft to the men between the ages of 18 and 21, the older would be called up for service first. There will be three classes, men between 21 and 29, men between 20 and 19, and men between 19 and 18. They will be called for service in that order. The senator also said that men above the age of 31 probably would not be used in active fighting. He said all danger of invading the deferred classes would be removed when the new legislation is enacted.

Senator Chamberlain believed that the new man power bill would meet with considerable opposition in the house because of its provision for drafting men under 21, and possibly some in the senate for the same reason. He said that the bill would introduce on Monday had the approval not only of Secretary of War Baker but of Provost Marshal General Crowder and President Wilson.

The bill, of course, will give the president authority to draft all men between 18 and 45, in case of emergency. Senator Chamberlain said, "However, it will not be the purpose of the administration to call men above 31 unless they are absolutely necessary. The younger men make the better soldiers."

The legislation, when enacted will remove all danger of invasion into classes two, three and four, in my opinion. In setting 18 to 45 as the draft ages, the government will be pursuing a traditional policy that began almost with the Revolution.

The War Department has moved to merge the National Army, the National Guard and the original army. That was a splendid step. Broadening the draft ages carried the new policy to its logical conclusion. Heretofore men from 18 to 21 and from 31 to 45 have been permitted to volunteer, but have not been subject to the draft. The new legislation will correct this difference. The new administrative policy is one that was urged when the original draft measure was under discussion."

Senator Chamberlain declined to make public the text of the bill prior to its introduction in the senate and the house but said that its essential points were simply broadening the draft ages and giving the president authority to call men "in such sequence of ages" as he may prescribe.

No member of the military affairs committee of the senate was informed as to whether it would be the policy of the administration to extend the work or fight order, now applied to men between 21 and 31, to the new registration but it was universally believed in view of Senator Chamberlain's announcement that those above 31 probably would not be called for military service, but this was the real purpose of setting 45 as the upper limit.

Foch's Master Blow Has Practically Wiped Out Great Salient--Allied Troops Have Reached Vesle River and Hurried German Retreat Continues--French May Spring Trap in Fismes Sector--Soissons Taken and no Sign of Enemy Stand.

General Foch's master blow of the year has fallen and the Germans are today in precipitate retreat over a 30 mile front between Soissons and Rheims.

The great salient, over 20 miles deep, which the Germans drove into the Allied front when they lunged southward from the Aisne heights on May 27, has been virtually wiped out.

Soissons, the pivot of the whole German right flank, has been taken by the Allies and the French cavalry has reached the Vesle river west of Rheims.

The German retreat threatens to become a rout with a great German force southwest of the Ardre salient menaced with annihilation or capture.

The defeat inflicted upon the Germans since the Franco-American counter drive began on July 18 is the most crushing reverse the invaders have suffered since the battle of the Marne four years ago.

Everywhere the Allied advance continues, with the German rear resistance becoming weaker.

Not only did the Allies take Soissons, in a storm attack, but they continued their progress three miles eastward along the Aisne river, closing the German line of retreat.

At the same time the French advanced between the Ardre and Vesle rivers, drawing tighter the diminishing "bottle neck" through which the Germans must retreat in the Fismes sector.

There is every indication that the Germans will be unable to make a stand north of the Vesle and that they will be compelled to fall back to the high ground north of the Aisne, where they stood early in May.

So rapid has been the German retreat that the Allies lost contact in some sectors, also that no fighting of any great violence occurred in those zones.

As they fell back north of the Vesle the Germans are laying the country waste. The conflagrations can be observed and for miles the sky is clouded by day with the smoke of burning villages.

The advance upon the German base of operations at Fismes now continues from three directions and it is believed that the town will fall quickly.

The counter offensive started 17 days ago. In that time the Allied forces have attained a maximum advance of about 20 miles and have hurled the Germans back on the Aisne-Marne front until they stand 62 miles from Paris. On July 16 the Germans were only 48 miles from the French capital.

ALLIED TROOPS REACH VESLE

Small Parties Arrive at River Where Germans Are Expected to Make Stand--Precipitate Retreat Continues.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Paris, August 3.—Allied advance elements on the Aisne-Marne front have reached the Vesle river.

(The Vesle constitutes part of the new line of defense towards which the Germans have been retreating for more than two weeks. The Allied forces north of Fere En Tardenois were between five and six miles from the Vesle on Friday.)

The Allies have extended their advance over a front of about 20 miles, smashing the German front between Fere En Tardenois and Ville En Tardenois.

Ville En Tardenois, twin nerve center with Fere En Tardenois on the flanks of the German salient, has been captured by the French.

French troops have penetrated the great German base at Soissons, on the Aisne river.

All along the Crise river, south of Soissons, the Germans were thrown back and the Allies gained the northern bank.

Bois De Dole, north of the Ourcq river, has been penetrated by the Allied forces.

After hard fighting the Allied forces have driven past Arcy-St. Restitute, 2 1/2 miles northwest of Fere En Tardenois.

"WORK OR FIGHT" MEANS JUST THAT

Provost Marshal General Seeking to Pick Up Strays--Movie Stars, Lawyers, Barbers and Others Mentioned as Non-Essential.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 3.—While the problem of obtaining a sufficient number of men to fill the September calls is engaging the attention of Provost Marshal General Crowder, and his staff, it was learned today that they are giving consideration to plans for extending the "work or fight" order.

When Secretary Baker ruled that baseball was a non-essential occupation and that diamond stars of draft age who had secured deferred classification must after September 1, obtain work that would benefit the nation, complaints began to filter into General Crowder's office that actors, and particularly "movie" stars, should also feel the weight of the government's power to force men of draft age to either work or fight.

The large number of chauffeurs throughout the country have also fallen under the scrutiny of the Provost Marshal General's office. Under the present regulations only chauffeurs who perform other duties in addition to driving a car come within the work of fight ruling. The cruising chauffeurs who infest the downtown districts in many cities seeking "fares" are likely to figure in any new regulations that may be drawn.

There also is talk of including lawyers, barbers, circusmen and a host of others in occupations considered non-essential, in any new regulations that may be issued extending the Crowder "work or fight" order.

Stone Crusher Seized.
A Reliance stone crusher and bins, the property of J. F. Gallagher Co., Inc., have been seized by Sheriff Smith under an execution. The crusher is at Glenrie and will be sold at the county court house on August 9.

North of the Ardre river, in the zone southwest of Rheims, the Allies have renewed their advance, capturing Guerx and Thillois. Commandant Decivieux, military critic of the Matin, characterizes the German retreat not as a voluntary movement but as a disorderly backward movement under the direct shock of the Allied thrust which turned the Crise flank.

Foch's Master Blow Has Practically Wiped Out Great Salient--Allied Troops Have Reached Vesle River and Hurried German Retreat Continues--French May Spring Trap in Fismes Sector--Soissons Taken and no Sign of Enemy Stand.

General Foch's master blow of the year has fallen and the Germans are today in precipitate retreat over a 30 mile front between Soissons and Rheims.

The great salient, over 20 miles deep, which the Germans drove into the Allied front when they lunged southward from the Aisne heights on May 27, has been virtually wiped out.

Soissons, the pivot of the whole German right flank, has been taken by the Allies and the French cavalry has reached the Vesle river west of Rheims.

The German retreat threatens to become a rout with a great German force southwest of the Aisne salient menaced with annihilation or capture.

The defeat inflicted upon the Germans since the Franco-American counter drive began on July 18 is the most crushing reverse the invaders have suffered since the battle of the Marne four years ago.

Everywhere the Allied advance continues, with the German rear resistance becoming weaker.

Not only did the Allies take Soissons, in a storm attack, but they continued their progress three miles eastward along the Aisne river, closing the great line of retreat.

At the same time the French advanced between the Aisne and Vesle rivers, drawing tighter the diminishing "bottle neck" through which the Germans must retreat in the Fismes sector.

There is every indication that the Germans will be unable to make a stand north of the Vesle and that they will be compelled to fall back to the high ground north of the Aisne, where they stood early in May.

So rapid has been the German retreat that the Allies lost contact in some sectors, also that no fighting of any great violence occurred in those zones.

As they fell back north of the Vesle the Germans are laying the country waste. The conflagrations can be observed and for miles the sky is clouded by day with the smoke of burning villages.

The advance upon the German base of operations at Fismes now continues from three directions and it is believed that the town will fall quickly.

The counter offensive started 17 days ago. In that time the Allied forces have attained a maximum advance of about 20 miles and have hurled the Germans back on the Aisne-Marne front until they stand 62 miles from Paris. On July 16 the Germans were only 48 miles from the French capital.

ALLIED TROOPS REACH VESLE

Small Parties Arrive at River Where Germans Are Expected to Make Stand--Precipitate Retreat Continues.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, August 3.—Allied advance elements on the Aisne-Marne front have reached the Vesle river.

(The Vesle constitutes part of the new line of defense towards which the Germans have been retreating for more than two weeks. The Allied forces north of Fere En Tardennois were between five and six miles from the Vesle on Friday.)

The Allies have extended their advance over a front of about 20 miles, smashing the German front between Fere En Tardennois and Ville En Tardennois.

Ville En Tardennois, twin nerve center with Fere En Tardennois on the banks of the German salient, has been captured by the French.

French troops have penetrated the great German base at Soissons, on the Aisne river.

All along the Crise river, south of Soissons, the Germans were thrown back and the Allies gained the northern bank.

Bois De Dole, north of the Ourcq river, has been penetrated by the Allied forces.

After hard fighting the Allied forces have driven past Arcy-St-Restitut, 3 1/2 miles northwest of Fere En Tardennois.

(Arcy-St-Restitut is on the Outhy-Le Chateau-Brairie road.)

So rapid was the advance along the Allied center that the Germans were compelled to retire precipitately. The Allies have advanced nearly three miles north of Bois Meunier, (Which the Americans captured on Wednesday.)

They have reached and taken by storm the village of Coulenges.

On the eastern wing of the salient the encircling movement against Ville En Tardennois met with complete success. In this zone the Germans were hurled back between three and four miles from the Dorn-Meunier road and at last reports were endeavoring to make a stand on the line of Vezilly and Lergy.

The Vezilly sector represents the most southern point now held by the Germans south of the Aisne. It is seven miles south of the Marne. The Vezilly-Lergy front, where the Germans attempted to make a stand, is shock of the Allied thrust which turned the Crise flank.

North of the Aisne river, in the zone southwest of Rheims, the Allies have renewed their advance, capturing Guerux and Thillois.

Commandant Decivieux, military critic of the Matin, characterizes the German retreat not as a voluntary movement but as a disorderly backward movement, under the direct shock of the Allied thrust which turned the Crise flank.

"WORK OR FIGHT" MEANS JUST THAT

Provost Marshal General Seeking to Pick Up Strays--Movie Stars, Lawyers, Barbers and Others Mentioned as Non-Essential.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 3.—While the problem of obtaining a sufficient number of men to fill the September call is engaging the attention of Provost Marshal General Crowder, and his staff, it was learned today that they are giving consideration to plans for extending the "work or fight" order.

When Secretary Baker ruled that baseball was a non-essential occupation and that diamond stars of draft age who had secured deferred classification must after September 1, obtain work, that would benefit the nation, complaints began to filter into General Crowder's office that actors, and particularly "movie" stars, should also feel the weight of the government's power to force men of draft age to either work or fight.

The large number of chauffeurs throughout the country have also fallen under the scrutiny of the Provost Marshal General's office. Under the present regulations only chauffeurs who perform other duties in addition to driving a car come within the work of fight ruling. The cruising chauffeurs who infest the downtown districts in many cities seeking "fares" are likely to figure in any new regulations that may be drawn.

There also is talk of including lawyers, barbers, circusmen and a host of others in occupations considered non-essential, in any new regulations that may be issued extending the Crowder "work or fight" order.

Stone Crusher Seized.

A Reliance stone crusher and bins, the property of J. F. Gallagher Co., Inc., have been seized by Sheriff Smith under an execution. The crusher is at Glenrie and will be sold at the county court house on August 9.

North of the Aisne river, in the zone southwest of Rheims, the Allies have renewed their advance, capturing Guerux and Thillois.

Commandant Decivieux, military critic of the Matin, characterizes the German retreat not as a voluntary movement but as a disorderly backward movement, under the direct shock of the Allied thrust which turned the Crise flank.

BRITISH AIRMEN ARE VERY ACTIVE

German Air Inferiority Indicated As Territory Behind Hun Lines Is Flayed By Explosives--Many Machines Downed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, August 3.—Six German aeroplanes and 16 machines were set on fire and one German plane was blown to bits by bombs dropped by British airmen on August 1, it is officially announced. Eleven German aeroplanes were shot down during the day's fighting and three other were driven down out of control. Another German plane was downed within the British lines by fire from high angle guns.

The text of the communication follows:

"On August 1st we dropped over twenty-four tons of bombs. A large number of these were directed on a hostile aerodrome from a very low altitude and during the course of a raid by two of our squadrons. Great damage was done to hangars and living quarters at the aerodrome. Six hangars and 16 machines were set on fire and one machine was blown to pieces on the ground. Eleven hostile machines were brought down in the course of the day's fighting, and three were driven down out of control. One hostile machine was shot down in our lines, by anti-aircraft fire and a German balloon was brought down in flames by our efforts."

"Two of the enemy's bombing machines were shot down over their aerodrome by our fighting pilots. Two of our machines are missing."

"During the night, in spite of unfavorable weather, tons of bombs were dropped by us on the railway lines, stations and aerodromes behind the German front. The same aerodrome which had been attacked during the day was again heavily bombed. Our night bombing machines all returned."

RUSSIAN PLANS ARE MATURING

Complete Agreement Sure on Steps to be Taken by Allies, Japan and China to Assist Muscovites.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Russia again held the center of the stage today. While the general negotiations with Japan continue it was made very plain in official quarters that they are of a most amicable character, and that the complete agreement is certain. Only minor points are at issue. On the broad general scheme there is complete agreement.

Just when an official statement will be forthcoming is hard to say. It is promised as soon as it can be made public without causing embarrassment to the various nations concerned. The announcement is complete on the desk of President Wilson and when issued it will make it clear to the people of the world that there will be no gobbling up of any Russian territory.

The general plan for economic assistance already has been announced. It provides for assistance of every sort to the Russian peoples in order that they may again become self-supporting. The military feature, broadly speaking, will provide for the utilization of a small international force in such a manner that it will not give offense to Russia. This force is expected to number in its ranks representatives of all of the Allied powers with Japan and China, by reason of territorial proximity moving as far as Siberia is concerned.

The "Soldiers of Song" patriotic meetings given in various parts of the town of Esopus under the direction of George Propstetter have drawn large crowds. A feature was the showing of stereoscopic portraits of men from the town who were in the army or navy. This idea is an excellent one to extend to other towns and Mr. Propstetter is at the service of any organization that desires to take this matter up. He asks no pay for his work—only the expenses, which are light. Above are some of the men whose portraits were shown at the meetings in Esopus.

GRAIN IN FIELD OVER RIPENED

Frequent Showers and shortage of Help May Shorten Ulster's Harvested Crops—Hay Crop Largely Saved—New York Boys Leave Farmers in the Lurch.

With the harvesting of grain that has now begun and in ordinary seasons should be in full swing, the need of farm help has been revived. The best report of conditions that can be obtained as to the crops in this county is a large yield in the field. But for various reasons it may fall short in the bag, that is when it is threshed out.

Harvesting throughout the county has not been so much delayed by reason of shortage of help as because of frequency of rains. A careful examination of standing grain in some instances shows a crop heavy with straw, with the kernels not as well developed as they should be. The weather has rather favored grain as it has gardens in the way of heavy growth of straw and vines.

This works not to so great an extent in limiting the food part of the plantings and savings as the hold up of the harvest from rains. Reports from agents of the farm bureau in this city is that there are fields of wheat not cut at the time they should have been, and consequently the grain has so ripened in the field that it shells out more largely than it should when being handled. The farm bureau estimates for Ulster are only five per cent hay in the fields forty per cent grain outstanding.

The month we have just entered on is to provide weather that will favor harvesting so that the farmers will have a clear way for gathering the corn. Many are heard to remark about how quickly the summer seems to have passed.

City Help on Holiday Trip. The labor problem, doubtless settled more satisfactorily in Ulster than in many other counties, is yet giving the agriculturists considerable uneasiness. There has been to a certain extent a drag in getting a sufficiency of help for the farmers.

Cases are known where farmers actually short of help have not asked for it from either the farm bureau or the Chamber of Commerce volunteer farm help bureau. It is suggested that this may be due to the distrust of city labor some farmers harbor. The farm bureau two weeks ago had a call for fifty men. Twenty were brought from the New York bureau. A few of them remained for awhile, but there was not the application to labor there should have been, not even during the short time this help was supposed to be at work. It is the fact that many of the boys who come from the city—who are brought into the country because they have applied for farm work—spend a day or two up the road then run back to the city.

Farmers Left in a Lurch. The understanding with help brought up from New York is that their railroad fare will be repaid by the farmer if they remain at work for him a month. Other the applicants haven't enough money to pay their fare one way and it has been advanced to them. Landing here and going on their job they obtain enough money to get back by asking the farmer for an advance, when they have worked a day or two. Then they disappear. When a farmer is being helped out by men who are sent to him he cannot with good sense refuse to give his help who may ask for it a couple of dollars on account. On the other hand many of the boys who have paid their fares take a sudden notion to leave any time without making it known or asking to be re-imposed. They are the class who thought to have a little trip with lots of fun and are willing to spend money in railroad fares. The farmers are thus left in a lurch. They are not apt to feel kindly towards the farm bureau, or for that matter any agency through which the boys were sent to them.

However efficient any labor supply agency may be such things cannot be avoided; and it is unreasonable to condemn the agency employed—farm labor bureau or whatever it may be—because it cannot insure efficient labor. The best that can be done is to grin and bear it, keeping in mind the extraordinary conditions that are upsetting the times. It is further suggested that farmers should favor help brought to them in these emergencies to a reasonable extent. That they should make the boarding of their help as comfortable as their homes and tables permit, for much of the help comes with boys and men who are accustomed to the regular way of living, eating at the family table and being treated as members of the family where they are lodged. C. of C. Sending Out Farm Help.

The farm bureau asks that the farmers who need help give the bureau from a week to ten days' notice. And that they have patience with help not familiar with farm work.

Three contingents of volunteer farm workers were sent out during the past week to Ulster county farmers who called on the Chamber of Commerce bureau for assistance in cultivating corn. Each squad performed a full day's work and gave satisfaction. There has reached The Freeman a complaint that expected help from this source did not materialize. Whatever may be the fact in that particular instance it opens the way for a suggestion to farmers who look for Chamber of Commerce help, and this suggestion in no way applies to the specific complaint referred to for it may be assumed that conditions may arise when expected help cannot be sent out. It would be remarkable if this newly organized movement, backed up by the best men in the city as it is, could be carried along through the first season it is put on trial without a hitch of any sort or some unfortunate failure to connect. As a matter of fact The Freeman has mentioned many of the largest farmers who have given this plan of labor employment more than one trial this season and not only found it successful but have obtained a full measure of competent farm work such as they didn't expect. It should be remembered that the men going out from the C. of C. bureau go out purely through the desire to help out in food production. They are all registered and in that way are endorsed. But they are largely well known business men, or in the case of men holding positions have the best business houses back of them. They are especially interested in Ulster's industrial welfare. Such men are not working for the money paid to them. It is expected that these facts will be kept in the mind of the farmers that C. of C. men are helping out.

Workers in the Fields. One group of Chamber of Commerce men sent out during the week went to Henry Krom's at Rifton. They H. Gould Smith, R. E. Leighton, Thomas W. Flemming, Arthur C. Tonne, Peter O'Connor, Clarence Embrey. The auto was driven by the owner, Seligman Oppenheimer.

The group that helped George Dumond at Old Hurley were Michael Ross, Barney Lankisky, David Navy, Lamar Crawford, Morris Schuster and his friend, J. F. Fuller drove the party with auto.

COOK WOLFF. Writes of His Experiences to Spanish War Vet.

On Active Service with the American Expeditionary Forces. July 14, 1918.

James S. Barber. Dear Friend:—As supper is just over and it is just 6 p. m., and enjoying very good health but we are having a lot of rain at present and I just started this letter at our mess table but I had to move in the supply house to finish it as it started to rain again. We have all conveniences here where we are but we did some moving before we got settled and now we are in a very old settlement here. The people can't understand the American language at all but still very good to us, but they certainly had to wait for us and they are glad to see us too. They gave us a very nice greeting in England. We were there about a week and our trip across will never be forgotten as we experienced a good trip but we will be more able to explain when we return to the good old U. S. A. Here we have a good old American Y. M. C. A. and everything sold comes from the States. Yesterday the company clerk and I went out for a walk and while on our journey we came in contact with a fruit store and in the window were peaches and I said to him while home I was in the habit of eating them and I said I am going to buy some if it cost all I got. So we went in and they charged us 1 franc apiece and that is 10 cents in our money but, Barber, old man, it was just like home. We go next door here and buy eggs and they are the same price but we are not starving. We are getting very good eats and we are traveling to the drill ground with meals twice a week. We have got those traveling kitchens and they are very good. We intend to move again very shortly but we are having great times at present and things look very good over here at present. Edwards is pounding his head at present. He came off duty at noon and goes on tomorrow. Then I rest 24 hours. I just finished school Tuesday learning the way to hand out British rations. While on the front my address is Cook Lester Wolff, Co. L, 310th Infantry, A. E. F., via N. Y. France. Give Larry Conroy, Harry McKinley and Mr. Hoffman my regards. And hope to see you by New Year's.

Respectfully, your friend, LESTER WOLFF.

Answer, Regards to all. MORAN BUSINESS SCHOOL.

Excellent Positions in Business and Government Service Accepted. If it were not for the very effective work being carried on by the business schools of the country in the present crisis, government officials and employers of office assistants generally would find themselves face to face with a problem, the solution of which would be a very difficult matter. Further evidence of the important part being taken by graduates of Moran Business School in filling up the depleted ranks of business follows:

Miss Anna Laules, a graduate of the stenographic department, has obtained a position in the office of Thomas W. Flemming, chief clerk, Ulster & Delaware R. R. Co., Cornell building.

Miss Bessie O'Brien, of the stenographic department, has accepted a position with the Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation, Perry street.

Miss Ida Niebergall has been placed as stenographic clerk with the Canfield Supply Co., this city. Miss Mathilda Ummerle entered upon her new duties at Washington, D. C., yesterday, in the service of Uncle Sam. Quite a number of Moran graduates are answering the call sent out by the civil service commission. And every Moran student that has gone to Washington to date has been well equipped to do the work that the government wants done.

Frank S. Maxon, Walton G. Fitzgerald and John J. Finerty, Jr., discontinued their courses within the past week, having been called for service in the National Army. They have been preparing for this step at the Moran School. In order to be able to render efficient service where efficient service is needed.

Diplomas were recently awarded to a number of students in the department of business writing. Celebrated Palmer method penmanship is being taught with excellent results in both the day and evening classes, as usual, during the special summer sessions. These certificates are awarded on merit alone, the object being solely to encourage students in their study and practice of business writing, holding them to certain requirements which help to develop the habit of careful systematic work.

Miss Ethel Madden, an experienced graduate, has secured a responsible position with the North River Coal Co., this city. She is a capable stenographer and book-keeper.

VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and money, to save the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are Victory Menus in more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Sunday. Breakfast—Puffed rice, top milk, wheatless toast, jelly, coffee made with milk.

Dinner—Roast chicken with gravy, mashed potato, green peas, lemon ice.

Lunch or Supper—Cheese and prune salad, Bread, Butter, Gingerbread, Tea, Fresh apple sauce.

The new wheat is beginning to come on the market, a bumper crop so that we shall be able, if we use it wisely, to do our full share in feeding our soldiers and our Allies. But our granaries have been emptied, so that we need, as never before, to guard against reckless use of wheat flour. We must go on using part substitutes with wheat as consistently as we have been so as to lay up a reserve for emergencies and possible U-boat losses.

Cheese and Prune Salad.

Stone cooked prunes, being careful not to tear. Fill center with seasoned cottage cheese. Serve 3 or 4 on a lettuce leaf with mayonnaise for an individual salad.

Recipes for any of the dishes in these menus which cannot be found in cook books, may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

Miss Bates at the city's child wel-children under 5 years weighed and measured. For convenience a new station has been opened to the public at the State Charity Aid's rooms, corner John and Crown streets. Both stations will be open Monday and Thursday from 9 to 12 and 1 to 4, with a registered nurse in attendance.

COLONIAL GLEE CLUB Will Turn Over Surplus Cash to Firemen's Fund.

A meeting of the Colonial Glee Club has been called for Wednesday evening, August 14, at the Mitchell House, at 8 o'clock, at which time the club will take action to turn over to the firemen's pension fund the money raised by giving a minstrel show in 1908. This money lay in a local bank for four years without drawing any interest, and was then placed in the Ulster County Savings institution, where it is now.

Only one fireman's family has been benefited by the fund and the members of the Colonial Glee Club feel that the money should be placed where some good may be accomplished by its use instead of remaining in a bank. It is likely that the money will be used to purchase Liberty bonds of the next issue and then turned over to the firemen for their pension fund.

AUTO LIGHTS "JACK" BIG BUCK

Farm Bureau Manager Sees First
Deer Grazing With Cattle On State
Road Near Tschirky Farm.

Head erect, neck stretched, muzzle pointing in the air, stood a 200-pound buck, (giving an estimate only of the weight), when C. F. Cochran's automobile flashed its headlights along the road approaching the farm of Oscar Tschirky. This prize spec-iman of the native deer was standing in the ditch alongside of the road.

The effect on this buck of the dazzling light was that which holds game deer in the hunting country fast and helpless in his tracks for the hunter who practices "Jack-Light Hunting," the kind of pursuit of deer at one time very largely practiced in the Adirondacks until the jaw crushed it out.

It was Friday night, dark as it was before the moon rose. Mr. Cochran, manager of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, was returning to the city and running his car at an easy gait.
"It was I should say, about two miles
this side of New Paltz," said Mr.
Cochran. "It was a big buck with a wide spread of antlers. He was standing close to the ditch. Within a hundred feet from him I passed a cow that was also feeding along the road. Behind the deer was a low bush covered fence separating the road from a lot in which cattle were feeding. It looked to me at first thought that the deer came to a stop when the light struck him, being then about to leap the fence and go through that pasture. He stood perfectly still. My car ran about a hundred feet beyond him. Turning my head as I was bringing my car to a stop I saw him vaguely still standing there. But when I had turned around he was gone. He was the first buck I had seen in this county, and as you know I've been travelling across the country in every road and every direction for some months. He was a beauty and just the kind I should like to get if hunting deer."

Oscar Tschirky's farm buildings are about a half a mile this side of where the buck stood. There have been other deer seen this season in this part of the county, that is in the river towns, though rarely have they appeared, and a buck like that is a surprise. Evidently the protection given to deer beginning fifteen years ago when the legislature put them under full protection for five years, has brought very satisfactory results.
However, it is seldom deer are seen feeding along with domestic cattle, though when they come out in the vicinity of farm stock they generally approach them with the curiosity that animates the deer species.

comfort. They turned into a park at the side of the road. "Smith, you better not drive on this road," said the friend. "Why?" asked Smith. "Well, that sign says 'Pleasure cars only.'"

The KITCHEN CABINET

Let the one who sighs for comfort
Feel a hand-grasp true;
It will cheer the way and surely
Can't impoverish you.

HELPFUL HINTS.

Make the housework as light as possible, getting every member of the family to do his share. Thus all may enjoy the lovely summer and have recreation and pleasure instead of burdening the house-mother with tasks others should do. Mothers often remark: "It is easier to do a thing myself than to see that others do it," but it is not right to herself nor good training for others to be allowed to shirk.

Iron only the hems of the sheets when they are to be placed on the beds. No one will know that a half hour has been saved from such ironing, a half hour for rest, reading or a walk—how much more important than a perfectly ironed sheet.

Gloves which need cleaning may be quickly cleaned by moistening flour with gasoline and washing the gloves on the hands until clean.

Stains on linen should be moistened with peroxide then placed in the sun.
If the stain is obstinate a second application may be necessary with the addition of a little soap.

Scald a dish or utensil in which fish has been cooked with vinegar and water.

Wood skewers with a bit of cloth wrapped around them make fine cleaners. They will remove dust from corners in windowpanes as well as in dishes.

If windows stick, grease the rope with a little fat and put a little around the casing. This is good treatment for a stubborn drawer.

Fresh blood stains will be quickly removed by rubbing well with dry starch which absorbs it, and then when brushed no stain will be left.

Pour a glass of warmed jelly over the mutton roast or chops just before serving.

Glossy clothing may be rubbed with a piece of emery paper, using a light touch.

Scorched places on linen will be taken out if moistened and put into strong sun-line. On woolen cloth rub with a piece of bread.

Hot milk with a teaspoonful of sulphur used as a gargle will relieve a sore throat.

Hurley, Aug. 3.—After a most glorious release and vacation from the observances, trammels and confinements of city life, Master John Foerster celebrated it all most oppor-tunately by a birthday. Like the little man that he is, he must needs have his companions of this glorious freedom aid him to celebrate the close of these never-to-be-forgotten weeks and share with him the pleasures of the occasion. So on Thursday afternoon last, seven little guests, each one a representative of a whole year in his life, were assembled on the seventh birthday. He made the eighth person present. The gathering gave him good measure and a good send-off into his eighth year.
The writer had the pleasure of seeing these eight happy faces around

WOODS' GREAT RECORD.

Has Saved 125 Lives and Recovered 157 Bodies.

Sheriff Smith and Seth Jocelyn, who went to West Park Friday afternoon, praise highly the work of Richard Wood of Poughkeepsie, who after ten minutes work of grappling brought up out of the Hudson river the body of Richard Gardner, aged 7, who had been drowned. No one knew where the boy had gone under, if at all but Mr. Wood, seemingly by instinct, struck the right place to begin the work of dragging the river bottom with his grapples and as before stated hauled the body to the surface within ten minutes. This makes the 157th body of drowned persons brought up by Mr. Wood and besides he has rescued 125 from drowning. His father, the late Isaac Wood, for years a well known dock master at Poughkeepsie, like his son, Richard, who succeeded him on the dock, had a grand record as a lifesaver. The elder Mr. Wood and his two brothers each had been awarded gold medals studied with diamonds as life savers.

U. S. DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE

HOW TO GROW VEGETABLE MIXTURES

Attractive and economical vegetable mixtures to be served in salads, with omelets, escalloped dishes, and garnishes for meat dishes can be canned at home. This by-product may be canned often by small quantities are left from packing different vegetables whole. Any desired combination may be made. Vegetables maturing in the same season should be used. A good combination for the spring would be carrots, peas, string beans and onions. A mixture which could be made from the fall garden might consist of peppers, celery, onions and small lima beans. (Beets cannot be used in such mixtures because they discolor the entire contents of the jar.) All these vegetables are prepared separately as for canning and packed in layers in previously boiled jars. Each layer should be packed as tightly as possible before the next is added. When the jar is filled, cover with brine (2½ ounces of salt to one gallon of water). Partially seal jars. Processing with steam under pressure jars 45 minutes under pressure of ten pounds. Seal immediately and cool in a draft-free place. When cold test for leaks and store in a cool, dark, dry place.

If the intermittent boiling process is used, boil for 90 minutes on the first day, and 60 minutes on the second and third days. Before each subsequent boiling the covers must be loosened, and after each boiling the covers must be securely tightened to make sealing complete. Cool, test for leaks and store.

If a single-period boiling process is used, place jars in the canner and boil for at least three hours. Seal, cool, test and store.—United States Department of Agriculture.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER.

DANNY AND MUSTARD.

"I am glad," said Danny, the horse, "that I am not an airship."

"You couldn't be an airship," said another horse named Mustard.

"Perhaps not," said Danny, "but I am very glad that I am not one anyway."

"An airship has no life," said Mustard.

"But it can fly," argued Danny.

"Only with someone in it."

"Well, I usually have had someone on my back. And I have helped them, too."

"When did you come to the farm?" asked Mustard.

"Only today," said Danny. "What makes you ask?"

"I've never seen you before and you look like such a fine horse I am sure I couldn't have missed you."

"Thank you," said Danny modestly. "I am glad you like me. I think we will be friends."

"Let's shake on it," said Mustard.

So both horses shook their feet and nodded their heads and then neighed.

"Tell me about yourself," Mustard added after a moment.

"I am twenty-six years old, and for twenty years I have been working with the police force."

"You have?" exclaimed Mustard.

"I have been working for almost that length of time with the fire department. We will be great friends." And both horses neighed again.

"You will have to tell me all about yourself."

"I will," said Mustard. "Just as soon as I have heard all about your history."

"I have been given a holiday. They say I mustn't work any more, but not because I feel old or ill or feeble. Goodness, no! But they say that I've done a good life's work, and I'm grateful to them for feeling that way about it."

"I haven't had a day's holiday in twenty years, not even the Fourth of July, or Christmas."

"The same with me," agreed Mustard, "though there were some days when I had part time holidays, and half holidays, but it all depended on how much work there was to be done. If there was a fire on the Fourth of July, as there might happen to be, we naturally didn't take a holiday."

"Naturally not," agreed Danny.

"Well, please continue," urged Mustard.

"I am to be looked after on this farm, free of charge, in return for the work I've done. It's a fine feeling to think one has worked for something; a very fine feeling."

"Just the way I feel about it," said Mustard.

"I have stopped a great many runaways. Oh, what a time I have had with the runaways. Some horses would get frightened and there would be no stopping them—at least it would seem that way."

"And I have saved a great many children and women, too, from being killed. I don't want to boast about it but I am so thankful I have done what I could. My master told some one that I had saved nine boys and girls in one day once, and I am so very, very thankful."

"I think boys and girls are so nice! I want to save them to enjoy such a nice world. And I am mighty glad I was given a job where I could."

"School children I used to help especially, for, of course, my work was in the big city and the children had to cross the streets."

"My master taught me to drill to the sound of a bugle. That is very thrilling work. And whenever my master had to speak to anyone I nodded, neighed, or, if they were very great friends of the master, I gave them a kiss!"

"I have done the same sort of work in a way," said Mustard, "because I have worked for the fire department. And my speed has helped the firemen get to the fire. But fires seem as nothing compared to your work of saving many lives yourself."

"Well," said Danny. "I am glad that I have lived such a long life, for I was able to make others live a much longer life than they would have otherwise. But now I'm just a wee bit glad to have a holiday—the first in twenty-six years."

"So am I," agreed Mustard, "but we wouldn't have enjoyed this holiday if we hadn't been felt that when we were working we did our work well."

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

Not in some time has a greater mystery hit the city hall than that of who turned on the public drinking fountain on Broadway near the Orpheum theater. All drinking fountains were shut off some time ago on account of an epidemic of glanders among the horses. This morning it was noted that the fountain mentioned was turned on and in good working order.

Superintendent Harrison of the water department and the other officials of that department had not the slightest idea of who turned on the fountain. The board of public works when asked over the telephone also stated it was a mystery and the same reply came from the board of health office.

The police department was not interviewed but it is not likely that they knew either, as the maintenance of the drinking fountains is without their jurisdiction.

Mystery or no mystery, however, the fountain was running this morning. As far as can be learned it is the only fountain working this season as yet.

On the police blotter where a record in kept of important events is the entry Officer Welch excused at 9:15 p. m. Friday. It is a girl.

Grievance Day has been fixed by the city assessor as August 20 when all who think they have been assessed too high may interview him about the assessment.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Soldier Shoots Himself.

He is a resident of Brooklyn and deserted and was caught and returned to camp. He shot himself Tuesday night.

Things Injurious to Fish.

The gaunt skeletons of trees which are so conspicuous in the "coke regions" show the effects of sulphurous gases on vegetation, and the influence of mine water on fish life may be readily imagined. The heavy sediment covers up the gravelly spawning beds, and suffocates the eggs, thus inflicting injury on the fishes at the most vulnerable point of a proceeding, under this section, to review the action of any custodian of primary records in canvassing and certifying the result of a primary election, or of the secretary of state in preparing and certifying the list of members of a state committee, unless the proceeding be instituted on or before the tenth day next following such primary election, and the final order at special term, in any such proceeding, must be made on or before the fifteenth day after such primary election.

Proceedings following such primary election, and the proceedings in the supreme court or before a justice thereof, the court, or a justice thereof, upon such proceedings, shall have the right to subpoena and examine witnesses, or in its discretion to hear and determine the case upon affidavits. In the court or justice thereof, of should find and determine that both parties to the controversy had been guilty of frauds or that the primary has been so tainted by fraud as to render it impossible for him to determine the true result of such primary and who was elected therein, such court or justice shall have the right to direct the holding of a new primary at the same place and in the same manner as the regular official primary. The court, or justice thereof, in case of ordering a new primary, may include in such order directions for the canvassing of the vote of such new primary.

AN ACT to amend the state finance law, in relation to creating a central supply committee for the state, and prescribing its powers and duties.

Section 1. Chapter 400 of the laws of 1917, entitled "An act to amend the state finance law, in relation to creating a central supply committee for the state, and prescribing its powers and duties," is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section, to be section one hundred and eleven, to read as follows:

111. Organization; sub-committee of the officers and employees. 112. Notice of contracts. On the letting of any contract under this article the comptroller shall in writing notify each department, board, commission and each head of each group of institutions for which any material or supplies are included, of the execution of such contract, stating the prices of the articles included therein, and where and of whom they may be obtained.

113. Purchases; how made. All purchases under a joint contract let pursuant to this article shall be made for cash on credit or time not exceeding ninety days.

The committee shall consider such schedules with a view to consolidating, so far as practicable, the quantities of similar articles required, eliminating such as it may deem unnecessary and substituting standard grades, and for the purpose of such consolidation, may request that a representative from each or any such department, board, commission, officer, group of institutions or separate institution be delegated to attend any meeting of the committee for the purpose of assisting in the determination of such consolidation or substitution but in such determination the decision of the committee shall be final.

ARMY FOR DIPLOMAT.

Germany's new "Ambassador" to Russia goes to his supposedly diplomatic post provided with two battalions of German soldiers. Doubtless the only reason he does not take a larger army to enforce his authority at Moscow is that the Kaiser now needs all his fighting men on the west front. The spectacle of a German diplomat at the head of a small army is as significant as it is interesting. That is the kind of "ambassador"—in reality a sort of viceroy—that the Kaiser would like to be able to send to every important capital in the world, for Germany's scheme of grabbing the place "in the sun" it desired called for world domination by means of the overwhelming effect of its mighty militarism.

To Washington especially, perhaps, Germany would like to send an "ambassador" armed with the trappings and powers of a viceroy, for the Kaiser's contempt for America and impatience at the management of its affairs have long been of vast proportions. This is again made manifest in the published account of the experience of his American dentist, to whom the All-Highest freely spoke with disgust of men and events in this country, clearly indicating his opinion that he ought to be the arbiter of our destinies. It seems that President Wilson, especially, has long been the object of his imperial displeasure, a fact which in recent time can readily be accounted for. The dentist talked back with spirit, according to his account, and to this he must have been tempted to do when he had the imperial jaws in a vise. The story pictures the Kaiser as an insolent, ignorant braggart and heartless ruler. No doubt the army-commanding "ambassador" at Moscow is a Hun of a similar type.

Some months ago Carl Bleistrup published in a German newspaper a detailed calculation of the German dead and prisoners up to August 1 last, his figures slightly exceeding 4,000,000. During the remainder of 1917 the estimate was increased 260,000 and the losses during the first seven months of this year have continued at a higher rate, admittedly being enormous. As the German prisoners held by the Allies are said to be not over a million, the fearful price paid by Germany in the pursuit of her unlawful ambitions is manifest.

Instead of a world safe for democracy, eighteen months hence will see the Washington government using its returned armies to enforce its tyrannical decrees and tread on the neck of American labor—according to shrieking Dr. Scott Nearing, who has been getting worse since he was turned out of the University of Pennsylvania. The alienists alone can say whether he needs a strait jacket or prison bars.

The German army actually boasts of a Major-General Hell, although the effort to give him in spirit to the Allied armies has failed. Strangely enough Hell as a surname—not yet translated—is still found among the Pennsylvania "Dutch," the fearsome patronymic—in German—meaning nothing more formidable than "clear" or "bright."

The President is quite right in refusing to be pictured in a uniform. Even in the midst of war his office is primarily a civil one. The old-fashioned monarch was a land-grabbing war maker, and a military uniform may best his successors even in these times, but the President of a republic over peace-loving is different.

The food problem has been solved for the period of the war, all real anxiety belongs to the past, and the 220,000,000 people fighting for civilization can now eat a purer wheat loaf with less of other cereal and mixture—such, in brief, is the cheering announcement made by Mr. Hoover in London.

Our dashing young Americans may have found it easier to take those German-held French towns than to pronounce their names.

Following the example long set by gallant British and French armies, the German army gave Quentin Roosevelt a military burial. The question is, would they have done so if Hun hopes for treading down the world were as high and confident as formerly?

Mrs. Pankhurst, backed by Lloyd-George, is in this country to urge the speeding up of production in munition plants. The great war has done much for Emmeline, providing a patriotic outlet for her startling surplus of energy.

Thrift and war stamps have been selling like hot cakes. Four-fifths of the total, $1,600,000,000 worth, have already been sold or pledged, and it is expected that the remainder will be marketed by the end of the year.

If it is true, as stated, that the Kaiser was at the front "when the tide turned," we may take it for granted that his All-Highest Majesty learned how to beat it without loss of time.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"I has heard," said Uncle Eben, "dat a rollin' stone gathers no moss, but dat's no 'sense foh keepin' still. A lawn mower dat ain't rollin' don't cut no grass."—Washington Star.

Putting It Over.

Recently a Canadian soldier who was prowling on No Man's Land spied a German officer and captured him. After conversing with him a while, the German officer offered the soldier 100 marks if he would be allowed to go free.

"How long will it take you to get back to your lines?" asked the Canadian.

"Two minutes," replied the officer. "I'll take that offer."

Just as Heimie was crossing No Man's Land, Colonel Blank of the Canadian forces noticed the prisoner escaping from Sergeant Dash's dugout.

"What's that?" he shouted, "did you allow your prisoner to escape?"

"It's all right, colonel," whispered the soldier with a broad smile. "I'll put a three-minute bomb in his pocket. He'll be in his barracks just one minute and up they all go."—Wall Street Journal.

One Type of War Worker.

A government official said at a banquet:

"There are some men who desire to do war work of a showy, facile and non-dangerous nature. These men are to be found in all the Allied countries. Doubtless they are to be found among our enemies, too."

"They remind me of a colored brother who got religion. He was a lazy chap, a remarkably lazy chap, this colored brother. Nevertheless he proclaimed loudly that he was going to help on the good cause with all his strength."

"He wound up his first prayer in this manner:

"Use me, Lord, use me—in making advisory capacity."—Washington Star.

Wanted a Substitute.

"John," said the clergyman to his new man, "do you—er—ever employ strong language?"

"The new man blushed, self-consciously.

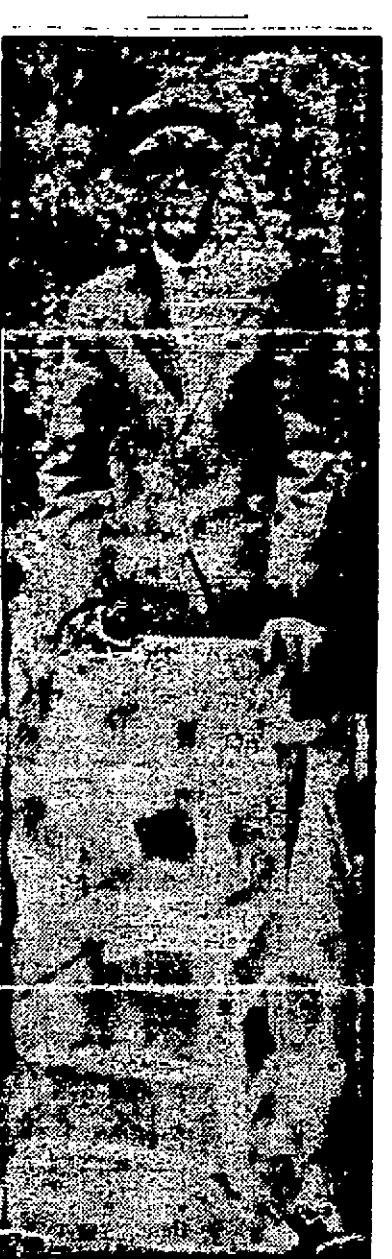

"Well, sir," he faltered, "I—I may be a little careless like in my speech at times."

"Ah," murmured the clergyman. "I'm sorry, John—I'm sorry! But we will converse on that at some more fitting time. Just now I want you to go to Jenkinson, Jenkinson and settle this bill for repairing my summer house. And you might talk to them, John, as if it were your own bill, in a careless sort of way. Will you, John?"—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Moran Notes.

In order that there may be no interference with the advancement of students in the several departments, day and evening sessions will be conducted throughout the month of August at Moran Business School, Burgevin building. Time was never so precious as it is today, and these summer sessions render it possible for many young people to make the few weeks count—time that otherwise might be thrown away. By taking advantage of the individual instruction and careful guidance of highly qualified instructors, students that enter now will have a big lead on those who defer beginning their courses until next month. New classes will be formed on Monday, August fifth.

AUTO LIGHTS "JACK" BIG BUCK

Farm Bureau Manager Sees First
Deer Grazing With Cattle On State
Road Near Tschirky Farm.

Head erect, neck stretched, muzzle pointing in the air, stood a 200-pound buck, (giving an estimate only of the weight), when C. F. Cochrane's automobile flashed its headlights along the road approaching the farm of Oscar Tschirky. This prize specimen of the native deer was standing in the ditch alongside of the road.

The effect on this buck of the dazzling light was that which holds game deer in the hunting country fast, and helpless in his tracks for the hunter who practices "Jack-Light Hunting," the kind of pursuit of deer at one time very largely practiced in the Adirondacks until the jaw crushed it out.

It was Friday night, dark as it was before the moon rose. Mr. Cochrane, manager of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, was returning to the city and running his car at an easy gait "It was, I should say, about two miles this side of New Paltz," said Mr. Cochrane. "It was a big buck with a wide spread of antlers. He was standing close to the ditch. Within a hundred feet from him I passed a cow that was also feeding along the road. Behind the deer was a low bush covered fence separating the road from a lot in which cattle were feeding. It looked to me at first thought that the deer came to a stop when the light struck him, being then about to leap the fence and go through that pasture. He stood perfectly still. My car ran about a hundred feet beyond him. Turning my head as I was bringing my car to a stop I saw him vaguely still standing there. But when I had turned around he was gone. He was the first buck I had seen in this county, and as you know I've been travelling across the country in every road and every direction for some months. He was a beauty and just the kind I should like to get if hunting deer."

Oscar Tschirky's farm buildings are about a half a mile this side of where the deer stood. There have been other deer seen this season in this part of the county, that is in the river towns, though rarely have they appeared, and a buck like that is a surprise. Evidently the protection, given to deer beginning fifteen years ago when the legislature put them under full protection for five years, has brought very satisfactory results. However, it is seldom deer are seen feeding along with domestic cattle, though when they come out in the vicinity of farm stock they generally approach them with the curiosity that animates the deer species.

No Mistaking His Meaning.

Smith was taking his friend out for a drive. The car had the jumps. It balked and bucked and bounced along unsteadily, greatly to the friend's discomfort. They turned into a park boulevard and the friend noted a sign at the side of the road. "Smith, you better not drive on this road," said the friend. "Why?" asked Smith. "Well, that sign says 'Treasure cars only.'"

More Notes.
In order that there may be no interference with the advancement of students in the several departments, day and evening sessions will be conducted throughout the month of August at Moray Business School, Burgevin building. Time was never so precious as it is today, and these summer sessions render it possible for many young people to make the few weeks count—time that otherwise might be thrown away. By taking advantage of the individual instruction and careful guidance of highly qualified instructors, students that enter now will have a big lead that will carry them through their courses until next month. New classes will be formed on Monday, August 5th.

AUTO SMASH.

Fatality Caused Near New Paltz by Lap Dog.

An automobile accident causing instant death occurred at about 6 p. m. on Wednesday on the Plattekill road at the Watson Elting place near our village.

Mr. Weinberg of Utica, N. Y., was on his way to New Jersey with his wife, Mrs. Anna Weinberg, and a daughter, aged 17. They intended to camp out on reaching their destination and had camp equipments with them in their auto. Mrs. Weinberg had a small dog in her lap, which became restless and it would seem jumped on Mr. Weinberg's knees, causing him to lose control of the auto, which dashed against a telephone pole and turned turtle. Mrs. Weinberg's skull was fractured and she died from concussion of the brain. Mr. Weinberg and daughter were not injured. Coroner Kelly of Kingston was sent for, but there was no occasion to hold an inquest and none was held. Dr. Codrington issued the certificate of death. Undertaker Pine took charge of the body, which was sent for interment to Hathorn Cemetery, near White Plains, N. Y.—New Paltz Independent.
